January 24, 2023

The Daily Morning Voice Online Desk: Seven people were killed in a mass shooting at two locations in the coastal northern California city of Half Moon Bay on Monday, CBS News reported. The San Mateo County Sheriff's Office on Twitter reported a shooting incident with multiple victims and said a suspect was in custody. Half Moon Bay is about 30 miles (50 km) south of San Francisco, Reuters reports.

Investigators had peacefully taken a 67-year-old man into custody about two hours after the incident, as a deputy spotted the suspect's car in a parking lot of a San Mateo County Sheriff's Department substation, the San Francisco Chronicle reported, citing a sheriff's department statement. The weapon was found in his car, the report said.

Deputies responding to a call found four people dead and a fifth victim wounded at the first location in Half Moon Bay, then found three more dead at another place nearby, the Chronicle reported. One of the locations was a mushroom farm, the Chronicle said. The shooting took place as the city of Monterey Park in Los Angeles County, about 400 miles (640 km) to the south, was still reeling from a mass shooting on Saturday that killed 11 people.
