July 25, 2025

Online Desk : BNP Standing Committee member Gayeshwar Chandra Roy has said that debates are being created on various issues due to the lack of experience and coordination of the interim government. He said this to the reporters after meeting the family of Nusrat Jahan Anika, a 3rd grade student who died in the crash of an Air Force fighter jet at Milestone School and College in Uttara of the capital on Friday morning.

Gayeshwar said, “The longer the election is delayed, the more crisis will arise and the government will face various questions. The government is not visible.” He said that due to the lack of an elected government, the country’s various crises are not being addressed on time. Gayeshwar also commented that due to the lack of experience in the government, their clear accountability is not being seen in one incident after another.

He demanded a proper investigation into the plane crash and bringing those responsible to justice. He said that the culprits in this incident must be identified and speedy trial must be ensured so that such accidents can be avoided in the future.
