While basic features are user-friendly, advanced tools like balance sheet inventory management or custom reporting can be complex to master without training or prior accounting knowledge. Unfortunately, Xero isn't HIPAA compliant even though it has a webpage marketing its software to healthcare businesses. This is worth noting if you work in healthcare, since using accounting software to process patient-related financial transactions could expose sensitive information and lead to HIPAA violations. When it comes to creating journal entries, I found Xero offers many of the same advanced features found in enterprise-level accounting software like SAP or BlackLine.

- Name your template, and then adjust the options to customize your invoice.
- As an intuitive cloud accounting platform for SMBs, Xero offers security tailored for smaller teams.
- Now, this feature caught my attention as many accounting applications do not have it, and you need to manually download the bank data for reconciliation.
- Overall, the process was intuitive and easy, and I was particularly impressed by the fact you could configure payments without having to navigate away from the invoice builder.
- Explore strategies to prevent errors, detect fraud, and maintain accurate financial records.

- If using multiple currencies is a priority to you, consider other platforms that offer this capability at a lower cost.

I think Xero is an affordable online accounting software that can work well for businesses of all sizes. I was pleasantly surprised by the advanced general ledger features and user-friendly invoicing and project management functions. This reduced functionality is to be expected with most mobile accounting apps, including FreshBooks' and QuickBooks' xero software mobile apps. During our most recent round of testing, we were highly impressed with Xero's financial planning features. Particular highlights include its expense tracking, cash flow projection, and budget-setting tools. There's also Xero analytics, the platform's dedicated AI arm for accessing detailed cash flow predictions up to 90 days in advance.
